Cassingham first to Announce Name as Ticket's Head

Democrats Strike First Blow in Mayoralty Campaign—Ed Gaumer Explodes a Rumor

Mayor Cassingham will be a candidate for the re-nomination on the Democratic ticket for mayor. He arrived from Cedar Point Tuesday and his friends made the foregoing announcement Wednesday afternoon.

It is also learned that Councilman-at-large Ed Gaumer has papers out, petition for signatures for his second team as councilman and this sets at rest the effort that was being made to have him come out for mayor on the Democratic ticket, antagonistic to Mayor Cassingham.

So far, but two petitions have been filed with Clerk McNaughton of the election board—Evan O Evans, Republican, for second term as city auditor, and Wm. Mueller, Socialist, for councilman in the Second ward. Papers have been taken out for a full Socialist ticket—the only party so far to get into the game. Not a single Democratic petition has been filed.

When seen by an Age reporter Mayor Cassingham would not commit himself. "I am looking into the matter carefully," he said, "and will give forth a definite announcement in a day or two. I cannot say just now whether I will be a candidate or not."

It is taken on the streets however as a safe conclusion that the mayor will run again.

Who will make the race on the Republican ticket is also an open question. Friends of former mayor Gail Hamilton are urging him to make the race again and Merril B Smith is being strongly urged. So far, however, neither of them will sanction the use of their name.

Ed Hanlon, who is president of council, will doubtless be the Democratic nominee for that place, and Councilman Stewart in Ward 4 is said to be up for re-nomination for that place. It is hinted by some of the councilman's friends that he would not be adverse to being the nominee for mayor.

Politics is heating up and the next few days are likely to see a number of candidates blossom forth.

BOY STOLE MONEY FROM EMPLOYERS

After having been taken before the juvenile court on many occasions Burt Retzler a youth about 11 years old was declared to be a delinquent by Judge Ashman Wednesday morning and was committed to the Lancaster reform farm. The boy will be taken over to Lancaster Thursday morning by Probation Officer Brunskill.

Retzler had the alarming habit of stealing money, trinkets and odd things of value from his employers. The matter was reported to the juvenile court on several occasions and the boy after having been given a lecture was placed on probation. He did no better however and his being committed to the Lancaster institution is the final wind up of his mis conduct

SENATE PASSES FREE LIST BILL

Kern Amendment Brings Bailey and Insurgents Into Line.

Washington, Aug. 2.—The Underwood farmers' free list bill was passed by the senate, after it had been amended on motion of Senator Kern to provide that meats and meat products and cereal products shall be admitted free of duty only from those countries with which the United States has a reciprocal trade agreement admitting farm products free. This amendment limits the free trade in meats and cereal products therefore to Canada. It was the price of the support of Senator Bailey and a few of his Democratic friends and of the insurgent Republicans. The bill also provides for a few amendments, including one by Mr. Shively of Indiana, adding binders. This was added on the theory that the word "harvesters" in the free list might not apply to what are known as self-binders. Another amendment, by Senator Gronna, struck out of the free list bill a qualification of the leather schedule. Another amendment by Mr. Gronna put upon the free list "Roman, Portland and other hydraulic cement and limes."

The house free list bill was lost by a vote of 39 to 39, Bailey of Texas voting in the negative. A motion was then made to reconsider by La-Follette, and this prevailed, and after the adoption of the current amendment the bill was passed, 49 to 29.

AUTOISTS LOSE WAY FROM NEWARK

A Coshocton man and his wife had an experience in motoring Sunday that was a red letter event. They had to go to Columbus so made the trip in the car, taking a driver and helper along as the gentleman was not long experienced in motor mechanism. They left here Saturday evening and had a fine run to Columbus, which city they left Sunday night about 9 o'clock. Then they had a puncture, and shortly thereafter another puncture. It was 2 am Monday when they reached Newark and then telephoned home so no one would be alarmed at their absence. By that time the driver was so sleepy he could hardly hold the wheel, so the gentleman, with little experience but much nerve, took the wheel and drove the car faster than any other night rider in Ohio has ever done.

There is a place between Hanover and Frazeysburg where the straight road goes to Zanesville and a turn is necessary to come to Dresden and Coshocton. He never saw the turn. Along about daylight they struck a village that was just awakening and then found they were within six miles of Zanesville. They got minute instructions how to reach Dresden and then after going at top speed for three quarters of an hour found themselves back in the same town they had left. They got another start—and to make a long story short reached Coshocton at 7 am. Monday morning. The few friends they have told about it, they have sworn to secrecy; and that's the way the story got out.

TRADES COUNCIL TO INSTALL OFFICERS

CHAS. HUGHES HAS HIS WHISKERS CUT

NEW YORK, Aug. 2—Where formerly a luxuriant set of whiskers adorned his countenance, there now is, only a stubby growth half resembling a VanDyke. Charles E Hughes, ex-governor and now justice of the United State supreme court, has shaved most of 'em off.

Justice Hughes appeared in the federal building to sit as presiding member of the postal commission investigating second-class mail rates and created a sensation.

At first he was unknown, minus the famous feather-duster whiskers, so religiously parted in the middle. All over the country those whiskers were known.

Frank Love went to Newark today to spend a few days.

Appeal Made to Help Family Made Destitute

The Associated Charities makes special appeal to the people of Coshocton this afternoon for assistance in a most worthy case—that of the Frazey family, whose home was absolutely wiped out by Monday's fire.

Everything was lost except a stove.

If you have them that you could spare, at once telephone the Rev. George Brewer, in the absence of President H. D. Beach of the Associated Charities.

Or if you prefer to give cash, either leave your donation with J. M. Mayfune at the Commercial National bank, who is treasurer of the Association, or mail him your check.

It is a case worthy of aid, and the fire has swept out everything of an entire household.

WOMAN 95 LIVES IN WASHINGTON

Guernsey County Woman Lives Almost a Century.

WASHINGTON, O., Aug. 2—(Special)—This town, situated in Guernsey county, boasts of one of the oldest women in this section, in the person of Miss Nancy Cook, who will be 95 years old on her next birthday in September.

Eight years ago she suffered a fall, and since that time she has been unable to walk, and is wheeled about her home in an invalid's chair. In addition to this, she has been afflicted with rheumatism, but despite these ailments, she is bright and cheerful, and retains all of her faculties to a wonderful degree. She is an interesting conversationalist, and relates many episodes of pioneer days.

She has been a member of the Presbyterian church here for more than three-quarters of a century. Her niece Miss Emma Cook of Coshocton county, is caring for her.

The Incorporators are Ellen, Mabel C. and Salahiel Neighbor and Minnie Stabler and Jane A. Baxter all heirs of the J. T. Neighbor estate.

The people have been conducting two dry goods and general merchandise stores in Newcomerstown under the firm name of The J. T. Neighbor Estate. The stores are the leading ones of the town. All the business of the company is done by the women and they are thriving.

FIGHTS TO SAVE SON'S HONOR

Mrs. John Bancroft, Jr., Files Suit Against Husband.

Wilmington, Del., Aug. 2.—Madeline Dupont Bancroft, eldest daughter of Alfred I. Dupont, multi-millionaire, has filed a cross-petition to her husband's petition for a divorce on statutory grounds, and in which he denied the paternity of her infant son.

She charges her youthful husband with adultery and with extreme cruelty. The young wife also filed an answer to her husband's suit in which she pleads not guilty to his charges against her. She declares he is the legitimate father of her infant, now several months old. Bancroft in his original suit called this child Max Heibler, Jr., and made it a co-defendant. The young husband is the only son of John Bancroft, millionaire secretary of the Joseph Bancroft & Sons company, textile manufacturers, of which Samuel Bancroft, Jr., is president.

In her answer the wife quotes incidents to prove Bancroft is the father of her infant son, and says "the said plantiff will not be permitted to bastardize the child born in lawful wedlock with her and can not allege that his offspring is spurious."

She declares that while in Munich, Bavaria, where Max Heibler, whom the husband alleges is father of the infant, is, the husband in violation of his marriage vows gave "himself up to adulterous practices." She names Elsa Schwartz and Marie Hofbauer, both of Munich, and alleges other persons unknown.

In addition the young wife declares her husband has been guilty of extreme cruelty to her "so as to endanger her life and health and to render marital relations unsafe."

She sets forth that she files the answer not only in behalf of herself, but in behalf of her son, "whose paternity is basely assailed."

MOTORED TO CAMP ALONG KILLBUCK

There was a jolly supper party up at the Killbuck camp Tuesday evening and even the fact that returning auto loads got caught in the rain and some of them soaked, failed to mar the pleasure of the evening. Those taking supper at the camp were: C. F. Gosser, Jack Carling, W. H. Bostwick, Carl Manner, Carl Herbig, H. E. Kristufek, Hippolyt Liewer, Fred Timmons, J. C. Adams, George Senft, S. M. Snyder, Sheriff McDonald and Gail Hamilton and Prosecutor Klein. Later C. B. McCoy, Dr. Temple, Miss Iva McCoy and Miss Crawford drove up in the McCoy car. Mr. Herbig remained at the camp and will camp with the party for several days.

BLOODPOISON FROM SMALL BRUISE ON HAND

Mrs. Benj. Ricketts of South Sixth street is suffering from blood poisoning in the index finger of her left hand. Mrs. Ricketts does not know how the finger became infected, but it is probable that the poison gained entrance through a scratch. The finger has been paining her since last Friday but it is much improved today.

Fire Makes Little Family Destitute In A Twinkling

Frazey Family's Condition Arouses Interest of Friends and Help will be Given to Them.

The sympathy of every good citizen of Coshocton has gone out from the bottom of his heart to the condition of the Warren Frazey family whose every earthly possession was totally destroyed in the midnight blaze in the Tatten building Monday night. Attention of the public was called to the condition of the family by The Age Tuesday night and the interest that has been taken is general. The Associated Charities may be appealed to take care of the family until they recover from the blow.

Warren Frazey the head of the family is a thrifty, industrious man. Business men with whom he has dealt are strong in their recommendations of the man's honesty. He has been employed as fireman at the Coshocton Ice Company plant. He has a family of children some of whom are young and even after he had gathered his little store of household furniture together it took the work of both him and his wife to get along without stinting the family on his salary at the plant, all his means of revenue.

Mayor Cassingham's attention was called to the family Wednesday morning and he is giving the matter his personal attention. It has been suggested that a subscription paper be started through the city to raise sufficient funds to refurnish on a small scale a home for the Frazeys.

The Frazey family were all in the country when the building was destroyed by fire. Everything they possessed, excepting the clothes they wore was a victim of the greedy flames—household furniture, clothing, everything.

The Belle Bucy family, suffered much loss but they still have the greater part of their household furniture even though it is damaged considerably by water. The Frazey family however is in dire need of aid.

JACOBS-ARMSTRONG TAKE MIZER AGENCY

W. J. Armstrong arrived here yesterday from Kenton to take over the old Mizer insurance agency, the new firm being Jacobs & Armstrong the senior partner being Edward Jacobs, as announced some time ago in The Daily Age. Mr. Armstrong expects to house soon and move his family here at an early date. The Kenton News-Republican says of Mr. Armstrong:

After 23 years of active efficient conscientious and highly appreciated service in the employ of the Champion Iron company, the last nine years of which were spent as vice president of that institution, Mr. W. J. Armstrong left today for Coshocton, Ohio, where he will enter at once on his new line of work as partner of E. W. Jacobs in the Ohio Farmers Insurance Agency.

July 1, the deal was made by which Mr. Armstrong secured a half interest in the Ohio Farmer's Insurance Agency at Coshocton, an agency that has been under one manager for the past 35 years, which is proof enough that the agency is firmly established, widely known, and a money maker.

Mr. Jacobs has been the principal solicitor for the Ohio Farmers for the past 9 years, and he is thoroughly familiar with every detail of the insurance business.

The News-Republican has known Mr. Armstrong intimately for many years and we have never known a man whose life has been cleaner and farther removed from reproach. He is a man of much more than ordinary capability and competency, and he enters with zeal and energy and righteous purpose into the big business of life. He's a man you can tie to and feel safe. He is universally respected for earnestness and his thoroughness and his integrity and his superior qualifications.

Mr. Armstrong's last term as a member of the city board of examiners has just expired, and his resignation marks the close of 21 years of continuous service. His resignation from the Kenton school board yesterday calls to mind that he was considered one of the most active members of that board, and both the board and the city of Kenton will be loser by his going.

Mr. Armstrong's family will join him in Coshocton Sept. 1.

The Armstrong family have been very popular in the social circles of our city, and very active in church work, and it will be with keen regret that the people of Kenton bid them godspeed to their new home.

SCHOOL YARD A WILDERNESS

Weeds Grow High At the Sycamore School Building.

Complaint has been made to the mayor and may be made to the board of health of the condition of the yard surrounding the Sycamore st. school building where the weeds have been allowed to attain a dangerous height. It is not only a disgrace to the school building and street, says the complainant, but it is dangerous to the public health.

The board of health issued an edict last week for the mowing of all weeds in the city limits. The matter may be taken up with the school board.

MISS MADELINE FORCE

ENGAGEMENT OF ASTOR ANNOUCEMENT

Divorced Millionaire To Wed New York Society Bud.

New York, Aug. 2.—No date has yet been set for the wedding of Colonel John Jacob Astor to Miss Madeline Force of this city. Miss Force is in her nineteenth year and is very pretty. Her fiance is 47 and was divorced from his wife, who has always had the reputation of a great beauty, a year ago last March.

"The wedding may be this fall, and it may be later," declared Miss Force in confirming the announcement.

Since getting her divorce, Mrs. Astor has spent a good portion of each year in London, where she, during the last court, achieved great social success. Unfortunately the present queen does not look with favor on divorced persons, however innocent, and stories came from London this season that she had found that life in London palled and was coming home to stay. Coincident came a rumor of a possible reconciliation with her former husband.

In his earlier manhood Colonel Astor displayed a strong mechanical bent and turned out a patent bicycle brake, a pneumatic road scraper, a patent turbine and several other practical inventions, though he was one of three who took a local interest in the "Keeley motor," which would not "mote" of its own accord after all that was claimed for it.

At the beginning of the Spanish-American war Colonel Astor, who had achieved a military title by being put on the staff of Governor Morton, equipped a mounted battery at his own expense and presented it to the government. He himself volunteered, and was made assistant inspector general of volunteers, and served as an aid on General Shafter's staff before Santiago.

An enthusiastic sportsman, Mr. Astor is fond of hunting big game, of yachting and automobiling. He was once credited with the ownership of 20 automobiles at one time. He made a venture into literature in the shape of "A Journey to Other Worlds," which has so far evoked no protests from the shade of Jules Verne.

GETS HER LICENSE

Miss Quimby Is Now Regularly Commissioned Aviatress.

New York, Aug. 2.—Miss Harriet Quimby of California was created the first American aviatress when the officials of the Aero Club of America awarded her an air pilot's license at the Hempstead Plains aerodrome. She is the second woman in the world to get a flying license. The first was Mme. Dutrie of France. Miss Quimby won her license by performing perfectly a series of aerial maneuvers in a monoplane that proved her skill beyond peradventure. Indeed, this first suffragette of the air established a new world's record for landing, coming down within not only 160 feet of the designated alighting mark, but sweeping gently to earth within 7 feet 9 inches of the mark.

New York, Aug. 2.—Postmaster General Hitchcock told the federal commission appointed to inquire into the handling of second-class mail matter why he favored increasing the postage rate on newspapers and periodicals. For the present, Mr. Hitchcock said, an increase of a cent a pound was all he asked. He urged that a flat rate of 2 cents a pound on both newspapers and periodicals should take the place of the seven rates now in force on such matter.

By Using a Harmless Remedy Made from Common Garden Sage.

Gray hair is a mark of age, and nothing that can be said as to its beauty will effect the disadvantages of this mark of age set upon your brow.

Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy darkens the hair and restores it to its youthful beauty. Our grandmothers and their grandmothers before them used sage and sulphur for darkening their hair. Nothing has ever been found more effective for this purpose than these two time-honored remedies, but Wyeth, a modern chemist, has combined the two with other ingredients which makes a delightful dressing for the hair, and which not only removes every trace of dandruff but promotes the growth of the hair. It also stops the hair from falling out and makes it beautiful.

Furnished by Pictorial Review
222 West 39th Street, New York City

Some mothers let their little girls wear wash dresses all year round, and when the cooler weather comes on, the heavier wash materials like linen, percale, pique and chambray are used. Chalk will have strong favor this fall and many beautiful designs and colors are being shown in this fabric.

Practical mothers of growing girls favor the one-piece frocks mainly for the reason that they can be slipped on and off so easily and laundered with very little trouble.

The Magyar blouse effect is being worn by children and is decidedly becoming to the little ones. The dress, which may be worn with or without a guimpe, is now cut in one with the sleeve cap and is closed the entire length in back with buttons and buttonholes either visible or concealed by a fly. This type of dress is quite popular for children this season. A very striking dress made in this style was seen at one of the large stores that make a specialty in children's clothes. It was developed of tan pongee and a single box plait at each side of the front and back extended from shoulder to hem. This formed the main adornment of the dress. It had a fancy yoke of some contrasting material, but this feature could be omitted. The neck of the dress was cut in Dutch round style and the belt was made of the yoke material.

The belt was slipped through by means of cut slashes underneath the box plaits.

The resourceful mother who delights in making her children's clothes herself will welcome PICTORIAL REVIEW PATTERN NO. 2668. It is a simple little costume and yet has a certain style about it that makes it beautiful. The sleeve is particularly new and attractive. Its sizes are 2 4 6 8 10 and 12 years. Size 8 requires 2 yards of 40-inch material.

Frocks for party wear are almost invariably made of batiste, nainsook, lawn, dimity and all-over embroidered materials. Lace and embroidery are used for decoration purposes. Embroidered flouncing might be used for making the skirt of a dress while for the waist and sleeves embroidered batiste could be used. Dotted swiss and embroidered crepes with dainty colored ribbons for sashes and rosettes make very pretty party dresses. Hand embroidery on children's dresses will always remain a vogue and nothing can be daintier or more charming. Shirrings on dresses is also a good suggestion and PICTORIAL REVIEW PATTERN NO. 2669 gives a fine idea of how to use it. This dress is made with a [illegible] high or low neck, and with full length puff sleeves or elbow length shirred sleeves. It can be made with or without the bretelles, and the attached straight gathered skirt with or without the [illegible]. The sizes are 6 8 10 and 12 years and [illegible] requires 3½ yards of 36 inch material.

A heavy [illegible] or linen crash or Irish crochet lace can [illegible] serge also [illegible] bordered with [illegible] in the form of a belt to give a contrast.

A little dress that can be slipped on over the head and which closes under the arms is shown in PICTORIAL REVIEW PATTERN NO. 2665. It is worn with a guimpe and has one seam sleeves. Sizes 2 4 6 8 and 10 years and a medium size requires 2 yards of 36 inch material for dress and 1½ yards of 36 inch material for guimpe.

The price of these patterns including cutting and construction guides is 15 cents each number.

DIEGEL DENIED ANOTHER TRIAL

COLUMBUS, O., Aug. 2.—In criminal court Wednesday morning, Judge E. B. Kinkead overruled motion for a new trial for Rodney J. Diegel, senate attache, the first found guilty in the bribery cases in connection with the general assembly.

The judge's decision was a lengthy one, requiring thirty minutes to read. After overruling the motion, the judge said that sentence would be deferred for "a couple of days."

Before the reading of the decision on the motion, attorneys for Diegel interposed another motion that sentence be suspended—in case of an adverse decision—until the case could be taken to the circuit court. This motion the judge overruled.

Teeth as Sentinels.

"When thou sittest to eat with a ruler consider diligently him that is before thee," says the Hebrew proverb, warning a king's guest to regulate his appetite by his host's temper. Boswell, Dr. Johnson's biographer, gives in his notebook a modern paraphrase of the old Jewish proverb: "I said of a rich man who entertained us luxuriously that, although he was exceedingly ridiculous, we restrained ourselves from talking of him as we might do lest we should lose his feasts. He makes our teeth sentinels on our tongues," said I."

TO BE CONSIDERED.

One hears so much about the initiative and referendum and recall and its adherents have come to claim so many virtues for the triumvirate that the actual merits are lost sight of in the general haze of glory that surrounds them. A great deal depends upon what kind of a government this is. If America is to continue a representative government where the powers of making laws are entrusted to representatives of the people, delegated with the power to act, then these three are not in accord. But if this is to be a government actually by the people, who shall take the time to dissect every question and to each become an active politician, then these three are possibly what is wanted. It harks back too strongly to the old days wherein might makes right. There are better and safer thinkers than many of us, men whose foresight permits them to avoid pitfalls into which us ordinary men may easily and blindly fall. The advice and counsel of such men is the best safeguard of the Republican form of government. There are many instances in which the initiative or referendum might work well, but we can conceive of no case wherein the recall would be safe. American public officers are elected for so short a time that the people have early opportunity to speak at the polls, and compared with the evils that might result from the recall system, the present system is far superior. Particularly is this true of the courts. Think of a judge having to listen to the voice of the most votes every time he made a decision; for peeled of all verbiage, that is exactly what the recall means in effect with the courts.

The action of the barbers and carpenter's unions declining to endorse any candidate for delegate to the constitutional convention but to leave their members free to support whomsoever they might choose is in accord with the best ethics of a democracy. The average "endorsement" means little, the average member of the average organization is going to do with his vote exactly as he thinks best and is quite content to do his own thinking toward that end. The candidacy that starts with a hurrah often ends as does the skyrocket; besides this matter of constitutional convention is something to be pondered over, each man unto himself. We can make a constitution here that will drive both capital and labor out of the state and make the garden of the Ohio valley like unto a wilderness; or we can make a safe, clean, progressive constitution of and by and for the people. The first thing the demagogue in politics does is to get up and declare himself to be for the dear pe e-e-ple; it is safer to trust the man who is slow to make promises but it is pretty sure, from his record, to think clearly and rightly What Ohio wants is a constitution that will invite industry and protect the public rights, with privileges for no class.

Seemed to Give Him a New Stomach.

"I suffered intensely after eating and no medicine or treatment I tried seemed to do any good," writes H. M. Youngpeters, Editor of The Sun, Lake View, Ohio. Geidel Pleads Not Guilty.

New York, Aug 2 A plea of not guilty was entered for Paul Geidel, the 17-year-old hellboy charged with murdering William H. Jackson, but his counsel was given until next week to enter a demurrer. Geidel's mother and his aunt, Mrs Mary Geiger, who came here from, Hartford, were with him in court.

SEVEN YEARS OF MISERY

All Relieved by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Sikeston, Mo.—"For seven years I suffered everything. I was in bed for four or five days at a time every month, and so weak I could hardly walk. I cramped and had backache and headache, and was so nervous and weak that I dreaded to see anyone or have anyone move in the room. The doctors gave me medicine to ease me at those times, and said that I ought to have an operation. I would not listen to that, and when a friend of my husband told him about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and what it had done for his wife, I was willing to take it. Now I look the picture of health and feel like it, too. I can do my own housework, hoe my garden, and milk a cow. I can entertain company and enjoy them. I can visit when I choose, and walk as far as any ordinary woman, any day in the month. I wish I could talk to every suffering woman and girl" —Mrs. DEMA BETHUNE, Sikeston, Mo.

The most successful remedy in this country for the cure of all forms of female complaints is Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

It is more widely and successfully used than any other remedy. It has cured thousands of women who have been troubled with displacements, inflammation, ulceration, fibroid tumors, irregularities, periodic pains, backache, that bearing down feeling, indigestion, and nervous prostration, after all other means had failed. Why don't you try it?

Why Should I Use Cuticura Soap?

"There is nothing the matter with my skin, and I thought Cuticura Soap was only for skin troubles." True, it is for skin troubles, but its great mission is to prevent skin troubles. For more than a generation its delicate emollient and prophylactic properties have rendered it the standard for this purpose, while its extreme purity and refreshing fragrance give to it all the advantages of the best of toilet soaps. It is also invaluable in keeping the hands soft and white, the hair live and glossy, and the scalp free from dandruff and irritation.

While its first cost is a few cents more than that of ordinary toilet soaps, it is prepared with such care and of such materials, that it wears to a wafer, often outlasting several cakes of other soap, and making its use, in practice, most economical. Cuticura Soap is sold by druggists and dealers everywhere, but the truth of these claims may be demonstrated without cost by sending to "Cuticura," Dept. M, Boston, for a liberal sample cake, together with a thirty-two-page book on the skin and hair.

POLICE ARREST MAN SEEN WANDERING STREETS

Andy Hutchins who was found wandering aimlessly around Coshocton streets begging for money to "get back home to Akron" was picked up by police at New Philadelphia Monday night and lodged in the city prison. The arrest was made after Hutchins walked boldly into the home of Peter Smith and asked for money.

Hutchins it is said was up before the New Phila courts a year ago charged with vagrancy He was sent to the county infirmary then, but he did not stay there long

Hutchins seems to have a clever little game that he works on the trustees of the various counties but he did not do it in Coshocton He goes to them and asks them to keep him for a time, and then when he leaves he gets enough money from them to take him home to Akron, where he claims is his home, but he never gets there.

Delightful Event Of Nellie Class

The class of 1910 of the Nellie high school had a most delightful time July 31th, when they, with a few invited guests, picniced west of Walhonding.

The pleasure of the drive of several miles was enhanced by the picturesque scenery of the beautiful valley until a lovely spot on the banks of the historic Walhonding was reached At the noon hour a bountiful repast was partaken of in picnic style. To say that all enjoyed this hour to the fulest extent is useless. Toward the middle of the afternoon the company thinking a higher point of view might be inspiring, wended their way toward the verdant hills of New Castle. The past history of the class being familiar to all, several of the company desiring to delve into the future, consulted the famous seer of the village.

After partaking of a dainty luncheon which was served in the suburbs of the village the party returned home all agreeing that after the year's separation their reunion had been most pleasant.

Those present besides the members of the class, who are Misses, Ethel Gamertsfelder, Bird Heft, Edith Metham and Mr D. E. Barnes, were Mr. H. R Lonsinger of the clas sof 1909, Miss Hazel Reese and Mr. C. L Norris of the class of 1911, and Mr. Emette Guthrie of the class of 1911 of the West Bedford high school.

"WHERE QUALITY COUNTS"

DELINQUENT TAX AMOUNTS TO $3,978.66

Tuscarawas Township Owes More Than Any Others.

Coshocton county's delinquent tax list this year will fall about $200 short of that of last year. County Treasurer Stillinger has just completed his delinquent list which shows a grand total of $3,978.66 as unpaid taxes through the county.

Tuscarawas township leads them all in delinquency and Keene township has the cleanest slate of the entire county. It is probably due to the fact that Coshocton's property is split up into so many small plots that the taxes are slow coming in. "If a man owns 1000 acres of land" said Deputy Treasurer Callahan, "he is more liable to pay his taxes in full than 10 men owning 100 acres each." The totals of the different items are as follows, being the grand total of all the townships and sub districts in the county:

Delinquent taxes from former years $134.95.
Unpaid real estate tax, $2,161.89.
Unpaid personal tax, $948 83.
Unpaid dog tax, $133 00.
Total taxes unpaid, $3,978 66.

The Crusader

A Glimpse Into the Past.

The latest Edison picture "The Crusader" shown at Luna tonight, is an American made film and affords a glimpse into the past, touching a period of the cross hilt sword and the half circle scimitar, a glimpse into Christian faith and pagan fervor. The story of the Crusader is simply the story of hundreds of others who rode forth to the Holy Land to redeem the holy sepulchre from the hands of the Infidel. So Roderick rode from England with the image of Eleanor deep within his heart and wore her colors upon his breast. See this beautiful picture story at Luna tonight.

The House of the Whispering Pines

By ANNA KATHARINE GREEN Copyright, 1910, by Anna Katharine Rohlfs.

"I remember," said she. Then, with another glance at her dress, which had studiously been kept cheerful, she remarked, with deep reproach: "My sister is dead. Why am I not in black?"

The nurse, realizing her responsibility (she said afterward that it was the most serious moment of her life), subdued her own astonishment at this proof of her young patient's knowledge of a crime of which she was universally supposed to be entirely ignorant and, bestowing an assuring smile on the agitated girl, observed softly:

"You were too ill to be burdened with black. You are better now and may assume it if you will. I will help you buy your mourning."

"Yes; you look like a kind woman. What is your name, please, and are we here alone in this great hotel?"

Now, as a matter of expediency, to save Carmel from the unendurable curiosity of the crowd and herself from the importunities of the New York reporters, Miss Unwin had registered herself and her charge under assumed names. She was, therefore, forced to reply:

"My name is Huckins, and we are here alone. But that need not worry you. I have watched over you night and day for many weeks."

"You have? Because of this slight burn?" Again Carmel's hand went to her cheek.

"Not on account of that only. You have had a serious illness quite apart from that injury. But you are better; you are almost well—well enough to go home, if you will."

"I cannot go home—not just yet. I'm—I'm not strong enough. But we shouldn't be here alone without some man to look after us. Miss Huckins, where is my brother?"

At this question, uttered with emphasis, with anxiety—with indignation even—Miss Unwin felt the emotion she had so successfully subdued up to this moment betray itself in her voice as she answered with a quiet motion toward the elevator: "Let us go up to our room. There I will answer all your questions."

But Carmel, with the waywardness of her years, or perhaps with deeper reasoning powers than the other would be apt to attribute to her, broke softly away from Miss Unwin's detaining hand and, walking directly into the office, looked about for the newspaper stand. She reached it just as a boy stepped into view with the evening bulletin, on which had been written these words:

The last juror obtained in the trial of Arthur Cumberland for the murder of his sister, Adelaide

Carmel saw and stood, a breathless image of horror. A couple of gentlemen came running, but the nurse waved them back and herself caught Carmel and upheld her, in momentary dread of another mental if not physical collapse.

But Carmel had come back into the world of consciousness to stay. Accepting her nurse's support, but giving no sign of waning faculties or imperfect understanding of what she had seen, she spoke quite clearly and with her eyes fixed upon Miss Unwin.

"So that is why I am here, away from all my friends. Was I too ill to be told? Couldn't you make me know what was happening—you or the doctors or—or anybody?"

"You were much too ill," protested the nurse, leading her toward the elevator and so by degrees to her room.

"And Arthur—poor Arthur, has been the sufferer! Tell me the whole story. I can bear it," she pleaded. "I can bear anything but not knowing. Why should he have fallen under suspicion? He was not even there. I must go to him. Pack up our clothing, Miss Huckins. I must go to him at once."

With the sudden rending of the clouds which had obscured her intellect strange powers had awakened in this young girl.

"You shall go," began the nurse, and stopped.

Carmel was not listening. Another change of thought had come. "How can I?" fell in unconscious betrayal from her lips. "How can I?" Then she stood silent, ghastly with lack of color, one minute and rosy red with its excess the next, until it was hard to tell in which extreme her feeling spoke most truly.

What was the feeling? Nurse Unwin felt it imperative to know. She approached Carmel with renewed offers of help and such expressions of sympathy as she thought might lure her into open speech.

But discretion had come with fear, and Carmel, while not disdaining the other's kindness, instantly made it apparent that, whatever her burden and however unsuited it was to her present weak condition, it was not one she felt willing to share.

"I must think," she murmured as she finally followed the nurse's lead and seated herself on a lounge. "Arthur on trial for his life! Arthur on trial for his life! And Adelaide was not even murdered!"

"No?" gasped the nurse, intent on every word this long silenced witness let fall

"Had he no friend? Was there not some one to understand? Adelaide"—here her head fell till her face was lost to sight—"had—a—lover"—

"Yes, Mr. Elwood Ranelagh. He was the first to be arrested for the crime."

The soul in Carmel seemed to vanish at this word. The eyes, which had been so farseeing the moment before, grew blank and the lithe young body stiff with that death in life which is almost worse to look upon than death itself. Then the stony eyes softened and fell, the rigidity of her frame relaxed, and Carmel sank back again on the sofa and tried to read the headlines on the open sheet before her. But her eyes were unequal to the task. With a sob she dropped the paper and entreated the nurse to relate to her from her own knowledge all that had passed.

Miss Unwin complied, but with reservations. She said nothing about the marks on Adelaide's throat or of the special reason which the police had for arresting Mr. Ranelagh. She did not dare. Strangulation was a horrible death to contemplate, and if this factor in the crime—she was not deceived by Carmel's exclamation that there had been no murder—was unknown as yet to her patient, as it must be from what she had said, and the absolute impossibility, as she thought, of her having known what went on in the Whispering Pines, then it had better remain unknown to her until circumstances forced it on her knowledge or she had got sufficient strength to bear it.

Carmel received the account well. When she had it fully in mind she looked up into the nurse's face again and repeated, quite calmly, but with immovable decision, the order of an hour before:

"We must return at once. You will pack up immediately."

Miss Unwin nodded and began to open the trunks.

This, however, was a ruse. She did not intend to take her patient back that night. She was afraid to risk it. The next day would be soon enough. But she would calm her by making ready and when the proper moment came would find some complication of trains which would interfere with their immediate departure.

Meanwhile she would communicate at the earliest moment with Mr. Fox. She had been in the habit of sending him frequent telegrams as to her patient's condition. They had been invariable so far—"No difference, mind still a blank," or some code word significant of the same. But a new word was necessary now. She must look it up and formulate her telegram before she did anything else.

The code book was in her top tray. She hunted and hunted for it without being able to lay her hands on it. She grew very nervous. She was only human; she was in a very trying position, and she realized it. Where could that book be? Suddenly she espied it and, falling on her knees before the trunk, with her back still to Carmel, studied out the words she wanted. She was leaning over the tray to write these words in her notebook when—no one ever knew how it happened—the lid of the heavy trunk fell forward and its iron edge struck her on the nape of the neck with a keen blow which laid her senseless. When Carmel reached her side she found herself the strong one and her stalwart nurse the patient

When help had been summoned, the accident explained and everything done for the unconscious woman which medical skill could suggest Carmel, finding a moment to herself, stole to the trunk and, lifting up the lid, looked in. She had been watchful of her nurse from the first and was suspicious of the actions which had led to this untoward accident. Seeing the two little books, she took them out. The notebook lay open, and on the page thus disclosed she beheld written:

Ap Lox Fidestum Trubum

Ridiculous nonsense—until she consulted the code. Then these detached and meaningless words took on a significance which she could not afford to ignore:

Ap—A change.
Lox—Makes remarkable statements.
Fidestum—Shall we return?
Trubum—Not tractable.

Carmel endeavored to find out for whom this telegram was intended. There was nothing to inform her. A moment of indecision was followed by quick action. She had noticed that she had been invariably addressed as Miss Campbell by every one who had come into the room.

Regaining her own room, which was on the other side of their common sitting room, she collected a few necessary articles and placed them in a bag, which she thrust under her bed. Hunting for money, she found quite an adequate amount in her own purse, which was attached to her person. Satisfied thus far, she chose her most inconspicuous hat and coat and, putting them on, went out by her own door into the corridor.

The time—it was the dinner hour—favored her attempt. She found her way to the office unobserved and, going frankly up to the clerk, informed him that she had some telegrams to send and that she would be out for some little time. Would he see that Miss Huckins was not neglected in her absence?

"I will see to it," said he. Then, as she turned to go, he ventured to add: "It is quite dark now. If you would like one of the boys to go with you"—But he received no encouragement and allowed his suggestion to remain unfinished.

She looked grateful for this and was pulling down her veil when she perceived two or three men on the other side of the room watching her in evident wonder. Stepping back to the desk, she addressed the clerk again, this time with a marked distinctness:

"I have been very ill; I know, and not always quite myself. But the shock of this accident to my nurse has cleared my brain and made me capable again of attending to my own affairs. You can trust me; I can do my errands all right, but perhaps I had better have one of the boys go with me."

The clerk, greatly relieved, rang his bell. With the first step into the street Carmel's freshly freed mind began its work. "Where is the railroad station?" she inquired of the boy who was trotting along at her side.

"Over there," he answered vaguely.

"Take me to it."

The sight of the station, from which a train was just leaving, frightened her for a moment with its bustle and many lights, but she rallied under the stress of her purpose and, entering, found the telegraph office, from which she sent this message, directed to her physician at home, Dr. Carpenter:

"Look for me on early train. All is clear to me now, and I must return. Preserve silence till we meet.

ENTOMED MINER FEASTS ON CHICKEN

Joseph Clary to Be Freed Sometime Today

Joplin, Mo., Aug. 2.—Joseph Clary, who was buried alive in a drift of the White Oak mine Saturday, and into whose prison a drill hole was sunk, is facing a new danger, although his release is almost in sight.

Young Clary shouted up the drill hole that he was all right, but that he was standing in three feet of water. The drift, he said, was filling with water. At the extreme south end he has dug out a little shelf above the water level. A deep well pump has been installed, the pump being run down through the drill hole into the shaft. It is thought the shaft will be excavated down to the drift by this evening.

Out of the black hole that reached far down into the gloomy depths of the prospect came the voice, "Hello, boys, I'm hungry."

"Are you all right?" shouted his brother Indian, Maurice Grafton. His brother James was next to talk to him. Thomas Clary soon exchanged a few words with his son. The answer was faint but the words could be made out: "Yes, I'm all right, but I'm terrible hungry." A stimulant in milk in a little bucket was lowered to him after the drill hole had been eased to prevent it caving.

The stimulant was supplemented later with a chicken supper. He has called for chicken several times, and told his sister, with whom he talked, that she could make that her particular outlook. Clary jokes with his rescuers.

"I have a dollar bill in my pocket which is just burning to be spent," he shouted. "However, it is wet, and there doesn't seem to be any place to spend it down here."

SEVEN DROWNED IN GRASS RIVER

Returning From Methodist Sunday School Picnic

Ogdensburg, N. Y., Aug. 2.—Carrying the Methodist Sunday school picnic from Massena, the steamer Cyrus was capsized near Brewer's dock, in the Grass river, just below Massena. Seven persons were drowned, as follow:

Misses Parker of Ogdensburg; Mrs. Fritz of Maxville, Ont.; Miss Fregoe and Miss Dewey of Massena, and two boys, named Hackett and Cline, of Massena. The boat is lying capsized in the river. Four bodies have been recovered

The excursionists were from Massena, Ogdensburg and Watertown, and had spent the day at Cornwall. Leaving Cornwall on the way back to Massena, where the members of the excursion party were to board a train for their home stations, the steamer ran into shallow water before the pilot knew it and crashed full speed into a shelving rock. The craft quickly listed, and while the excursionists hurriedly put on life preservers and jumped into the river, the boat suddenly keeled over.

Rescuing parties, hearing the vessel's whistles of distress, put out from shore and saved many of the persons who were floundering in the river. There were many exceptional rescues and instances of heroism, and to the bravery of those who rushed to the scene in motorboats and other small craft is due the fact that there was not greater loss of life.

TWELVE LIVES LOST

Eight Bodies Recovered From Ruins of Insane Asylum.

Hamilton, Ont., Aug. 2.—Eight bodies have been taken from the ruins of the Hamilton insane asylum, destroyed by fire. It is known there are four more bodies in the ruins, which are now being searched.

There were 600 patients in the institution when the fire broke out, and 85, considered among the most dangerous, were confined on the fifth floor.

The fire was marked by a display of heroism by doctors, nurses and attendants seldom equaled in the history of Canada. Many of the patients were absolutely helpless from disease that confined them to their beds. Others, their reason gone, saw in the leaping flames and crackling sparks merely a splendid spectacle for their entertainment. The result was that in numerous instances the endangered inmates of the wards had to be fairly lifted on the shoulders of the hospital force and carried into the roadway.

The shrieks of the frantic patients could be plainly heard in the south end of the city, several miles away.

Telling Men How to Make Money

The Advertising Agent of Today

Advertising advisers, in the year 1911, must be more than most men suppose.

This business, called advertising, really involves the whole science of making money.

There isn't a step from the factory to the home which the advertising sponsor dares to overlook.

And the qualified man should know every maneuver evolved in all business experience.

Mere advertising today, without all the accessories, is simply inexcusable folly.

One can hardly conceive of a selling idea which somebody hasn't worked out to the finish.

Your problems have all been solved somewhere. Your possible pitfalls have all been discovered. And there isn't a road to merchandising success which somebody hasn't traveled.

There lies the value of qualified advisers. A value that amounts to necessity.

Their lives have been lived in a vortex of experiments utterly unknown to you. They have learned what you need to know.

For instance, Lord & Thomas.

We have been the advisers of a thousand concerns, all leaders in their lines. We know all of their problems, and how they were solved. We know all their successes, and to what they were due. We know their mistakes, and how you can avoid them.

By comparing all methods, their cost and result, we have learned the best way to meet any condition.

A single piece of advice, founded on this experience, has, again and again, won a fortune.

All this has resolved itself into a science, called Strategy in Advertising. It is the digested result of a myriad clever maneuvers.

It points the best way—the quickest, surest, cheapest way—to accomplish each selling purpose.

Strategy has revolutionized advertising in our institution. It has formed the foundation of all our recent successes.

It has given new products national sale in a month. It has made them immediately profitable. It has taken from advertising about all its uncertainties.

We have set these discoveries down in a book—the most valuable book ever written on advertising. It reveals, for the first time, our most valuable secrets. It cites examples of profitable procedure.

It will also give you a new respect for the men who wrote it. That's why we send it out.

Cut out this reminder; put it in your pocket. Then, when convenient, write us for the book.

HOLMES CO. MAN WANTS FARMERS TO SHOW NAMES

Comparatively few farmers place their names on their barns and seldom renew the painted address on the mail boxes, but if they realize how interesting it is to strangers driving through the country, we believe that most of them would provide means of identification. A man in town who comes in contact very often with a farmer and knows him as his next door neighbor, is often unable to drive to his farmer friend's house. On a ten or twenty mile circuit of his own county he knows comparatively few of the farms he is passing and these are almost exclusively the ones which have the owner's name displaying on barn, etc. The bigger the building the more willing the owners should be to let people know who owns them, but no matter how humble the place may be, the owner of any farm should be proud that he has even only a few acres he can call his own and should not object to acknowledge such ownership by coupling his name to it.—Holmes County Farmer.

Governor Wilson Would Keep Prohibition Out Of Politics.

Trenton, N J., Aug. 2.—The Rev. Thomas B Shannon, superintendent of the Anti-Saloon league, and G. Rowland Monroe, counsel for the organization, called on Governor Wilson with the worthy motive of trying to enlist his support in transforming New Jersey from a wet to a dry state. They failed to make much of a hit. Governor Wilson told the visitors that although he was a personal believer in prohibition and local self-government, he thought the liquor question should have no place in politics. He looked upon it as a moral and social question to be dealt with separately from the great political issues of the day.

MORE ROOM NEEDED AT CHILDREN'S HOME

More room is needed at the Tuscarawas County Children's Home, says Dr. Frank Boudreau, of the state board of health, who has just completed an investigation of the diphtheria epidemic at the home. Dr. Boudreau says that under present conditions every inmate of the home would be endangered if there should be a serious outbreak of any contagious disease.

Heeding the advice of the doctor, Superintendent Kelley is considering putting up several tents in the yard at the home for the boys, thus eliminating to a certain extent the crowde condition.

Matron Kelley Tuesday afternoon said that there could be easily serious results if the epidemic would make headway. As we are fixed now, we haven't got enough room to keep the suspicious cases away from the other children without a whole lot of trouble." Mrs. Kelley said. "I think we will put tents up for a while and let most of the boys sleep out there."

The congested condition will be relieved in the near future. Many of the inmates at present are from Muskingum county, and a children's home is now in course of construction at Zanesville. As soon as it is completed the Dover home will lose nearly half of its population.

Buy it now. Now is the time to buy a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. It is almost certain to be needed before the summer is over. This remedy has no superior. For sale by all dealers

Newark Wet List Includes Lou Bolton Of Lynch Fame.

Lou Bolton, recently acquitted at Mt Vernon of complicity in the murder of Carl Etherington, dry detective, who was lynched at Newark a year ago, is nearly at the top of the list of 35 alleged Newark liquor dealers whose names were certified to State Auditor Fullington by Dairy and Food Commissioner Strode yesterday. The names will be certified to the auditor of Licking county for collection of the Aiken liquor tax.

Bolton's place of business is given as near the Baltimore & Ohio depot. Strode's men have been working in Newark for several days and the list is one of the biggest returned thus far. Each dealer is liable to a tax of $1000, which should help enrich the state and local treasuries.

ASKS $10,000 IN ALIENATION SUIT AT PHILA

New Phila, Aug. 2.—Charging that the defendant alienated his wife's affections to such an extent that their home was ruined, Alva J. Bates, living in the vicinity of Strasburg, Monday instituted a suit in common pleas court asking damages in the sum of $10,000 from Theophilus S. Gordon, another farmer. The case is one of the most sensational that has been taken into court for some time.

In his petition Bates says that Mrs. Bates formerly Effie Steitz, was a good wife and conducted herself in a proper manner until 1908, when Gordon began paying attention to her. Bates charges that Gordon at numerous times gave Mrs Bates presents, such as jewelry, sums of money, wearing apparel, with the result that "he has wrongfully alienated the affection of the plaintiff's wife." Bates says Gordon's visits were wicked and with malicious design, and that became the subject of public comment and resulted in public notoriety.

Bates further charges that his wife has lost all love for him and is neglecting her home and children

Bates and his wife were married Nov. 25, 1899. They are well known in Franklin township Gordon is also prominent. Mr. and Mrs Bates have four small children. Henry W. Bowers of New Phila, is Bates' attorney.

THE SECRET OF SUCCESS

Genuine Merit Required to Win the People's Confidence

Have you ever stopped to reason why it is that so many products that are extensively advertised, all at once drop out of sight and are soon forgotten? The reason is plain—the article did not fulfil the promises of the manufacturer This applies more particularly to a medicine. A medicinal preparation that has real curative value almost sells itself, as like an endless chain system the remedy is recommended by those who have been cured, to those who are in need of it.

In an interview on the subject a prominent local druggist says "Take for example Dr Kilmer's Swamp-Root, a preparation I have sold for many years and never hesitate to recommend, for in almost every case it shows immediate results, as many of my customers testify. No other kidney remedy that I know of has so large a sale."

The success of Dr Kilmer's Swamp-Root is due to the fact that it fulfils every wish in overcoming kidney, liver and bladder diseases, corrects urinary troubles and neutralizes the uric acid which causes rheumatism.

A free trial bottle will be sent by mail, absolutely free. Address Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., and mention this paper Regular size bottles sold at all druggists—50c and $1.

FINDS BANK NOTE DATED IN 1844

A few days ago while J. W. Elsea was looking over some of the papers of his grandfather, the late William Armstrong, he found a one dollar bill issued by the bank of Wooster, Ohio, in 1844. The bank note bears the signature of O. Klemm, cashier and G Willham, president. The bill bears evidence of age and looks as though it might have been in active circulation for some time before coming into Mr. Armstrong's possession.—Adamsville Register.
